The Bartender's Guide TO LOCAL GIN

TWO MOONS FIVE FLOWER TEA

Herbal, earthy and soothing. On the nose, a floral bouquet of chrysanthemum tempts you in for an inviting sip. On the palate, sweet notes of frangipani and self-heal linger before transitioning into earthy, tangy notes of honeysuckle and silk cotton.

TWO MOONS CALAMANSI

Characteristically Calamansi on the nose — bright, crisp and zesty. When sipped, refreshing notes of citrus develop into a soft undertone of juniper berries, before finishing with a lingering flavor of spruce tips for a layered citrus flavor profile.

N.I.P CATNIP

On the nose, the gin draws upon the fragrance of the tea and the citrus from the grapefruit peel, giving it an aromatic and refreshing scent. On the palate, the gin is juniper forward, followed by the lingering elegance and sweet and roasted complexity of the tea, which is also supported by the freshness of grapefruit and ginger.

N.I.P RARE DRY GIN

The main stage created by the traditional piney juniper berries is highlighted by the tangy aged tangerine peels, further complemented by the elegance and citrus of kumquat and the sweetness and lingering aromas of Shoumei tea.

PERFUME TREES

The first taste has a refreshing aroma of citrus, the middle taste has warm herbal aromas such as sandalwood and juniper berries, and the final taste end up by exudes a faint tea aroma; the overall aroma is white orchid, sandalwood, sweet flowers and spices.

PERFUME TREES PALE INK

Pale Ink has floral and fruity tasting notes from the coffee beans, with White Champaca and Indian Sandalwood coming through from the Perfume Trees Gin spirit base. The aftertaste of the liqueur is of the rich coffee notes.
